STIKEEN RIVER JOURNAL

The Way of Man.

An exchange remarks that man's life is full of crossness and temptations. He comes into the world without his consent and goes out of it against his will, and the trip between is exceedingly rocky. The rule of contraries is one of the important features of the trip. When he is little the grown girls kiss him, and when he is grown the little girls kiss him; if he raises a large family he is called a mustard, but if he raises a small check he is a thief and a fraud and is shunned like a Chinaman with the seven-year itch; if he is poor he is a bad manager, if he is rich he is dishonest; if he is in politics he is for pie, if he is out of politics you can't tell where to place him and he is no good to his country; if he does an act of charity it is policy, if he doesn't give to charity he is an old curmudgeon, a stingy cuss and lives only for himself; if he dies young there was a great future before him, if he lives to an old age he has missed his calling. He is introduced into the world by a doctor and to the next by the same process, and the little nich that he has filled in life is closed, and the world that once knew him will know him no more forever. Verily the road is rocky but man has to travel it.

Lake Teslin's Latest.

J. H. Greer, agent for the White Pass and Skagway railway, in an interview with the Seattle Times, said: "Regarding the Atlin discoveries, from all reports which I have had concerning them, both from our representatives there and from personal friends, it is certain that the district has only begun to show up in its true light. Only the other day I was called upon by a friend of mine, who had gone into that country in the early spring with another companion, to prospect for placer diggings. They went into the Teslin Lake country about 200 miles from where the new Atlin district is situated, and from the beach sand of a little lake in the vicinity of Lake Teslin took from the surface pans an average amount of from 55c. to 60c. "The above is absolutely true as I know the man personally. As yet only the creeks running directly into or near the Atlin river have been prospected, and they have been only given a surface examination. I look, as every one else does who is acquainted with the country's prospects, for a large rush in there via the Stikeen River in the early spring, and there is no doubt that the country will in the end outdo the famous Klondike."

Alaskans Want the Law Changed.

Two hundred citizens of Alaska met in the Hotel Northern, in Seattle, the other day to discuss the exclusion act. The P.-I. said: "Attorney Willoughby Clark, of Wrangel, an Alaskan and constitutional lawyer of some prominence, was chairman, and Al Crofton acted as secretary.

"After the call to order, Attorney Bennett read the following telegram which had been received from Washington:

"Washington, D. C. Jan. 20, 1899. "Chamber of Commerce, Seattle, Wash.: Have presented your telegram to president and Canadian commission and am assured that subject matter shall be given every consideration. "GEORGE C. PERKINS."

"The counselor elaborated on the merit of the points in the resolution, especially showing the need of the joint high commission's meeting on the coast before adjournment. Especially was this latter course necessary in view of the complications arising from the British Columbian course.

"The relationship of the provincial government to the Dominion government was spoken of by Chairman Clark, who said that when British Columbia was organized as a province it was given special privileges in having absolute control over its own lands. There was, however, a possible constitutional question involved in the placer amendment in that free miners' licenses were granted, carrying with them the right of location, and that the government was refusing to recognize these location privileges. This act's effect on international relations was also one that might legitimize Ottawa interference."

Don't think that an apology always wipes out an offense.

Don't be afraid to speak out loud. The world is too busy to listen to your whispers.

A newspaper whose columns overflow with advertisements of business men has more influence in attracting the attention to and building up a city or town than any other agency that could be employed. People go where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build up a town as a newspaper well patronized and it's power should be appreciated.

The Skagway News in its last issue refers to the Journal as follows:

"For the chance it has the Stikeen River Journal, published at Wrangel, is one of the best papers in the district. It is clean, bright and ably edited. Above all it is loyal and true to its home and her industries. The people of Wrangle should be proud of their paper and extend to it the support it richly deserves."

Hon. W. T. Hume, in an interview in the Portland Daily Times, says:

"My court experiences in Juneau were interesting. No fairer man than Judge Johnson ever occupied a jurist's seat, and District Attorney General Friedrich was as courteous as he could be, but the name of 'Soapy' Smith was a red shirt before a Mexican bull. Any defendant with a 'Soapy' flavor about him was almost sure of conviction, and business men of Skagway were afraid to testify in their behalf."

The Ad-Writer holds to the argument that of all the various kinds of advertising there is none equal to the regular, legitimate newspaper advertising. Only those with money to experiment with can afford to use the other kind of advertising. Of course, one can waste money in newspaper space, but not near so easily as in other kinds of adver-tizing. One must buy newspaper space at the right price and in the right paper, and use bright, catchy advertisements in this space, and the returns will in nine cases out of ten be profitable. Every business man should learn to use the newspaper columns to their full earning capacity before trying other kinds of advertising.

"How long! Oh! Lord, how long?" must we suffer a certain few to furnish liquor to the natives in open defiance of the law? Last summer we suffered a heavy loss by fire. Nearly one-half of the business portion of our town was destroyed. Cause: Drunken Indians.

A few weeks ago murder was committed in one of our business houses. Cause: A drunken Indian.

A few nights ago the sawmill had a narrow escape from fire. Cause: A drunken Klotchman.

There is a big house near the mill, owned by Katashan, and there is or has been, so we are informed, a native woman living there and some person or persons are supplying her with all the liquor she can consume and it is, for her, one long, continual drunk. Chief Shakes had occasion to visit the house the other night and found her dead drunk and a burning candle on the floor. The chief's visit probably saved the mill.

The danger from fire is a problem for our property owners to work out. The moral side is for our fathers and mothers to consider.

It is rumored that liquor is being furnished the young native girls for the purpose of getting them drunk so that certain immoral, unscrupulous and depraved persons could procure photographs of them in a nude state. We are going to look this matter up and as true as there is a God in heaven, if we find it is true, we will publish the names of all parties concerned, so that the decent people may shun them as they would a rattle-snake.

We heard a business man say that since he was 9 years old he had lived among Indians, but never before had he seen the time or place where a native could walk right up to the bar and buy his whiskey the same as a white man.

Again the cry goes up. "How long! Oh! Lord, how long?"

TO THE PUBLIC.

The Journal, fully impressed with the importance of Wrangel as a prospective mining centre, and of the great advantages to accrue to the business interests of the town by encouraging men to prospect in good faith, has established a mining feature to its office.

We will arrange to exhibit specimens of rock in one of our large office windows, and invite claim owners to leave their specimens with us for inspection by the public. We will receive such specimens upon the following conditions only:

The owner must state the name of the location; date and place of location; if assays are had, a copy of the assay, giving name of assayer; the amount of work done upon the claim; in short we want from each person leaving specimens, an open and honest statement of everything relating to the location which will give an intelligent conception of it.

If the property is for sale we will try to sell it for a fair commission. If capital is needed to aid in development, we will endeavour to supply it.

Our paper is growing in circulation and influence and we will be pleased to give the widest circulation to its mining department. We hope the business men of the town will see the possible advantages to be derived from this effort, and that they will do what they can to create a splendid exhibit for the information of those who will in the future visit us with a view of purchasing or developing mining property.

THE FISHES OF THE NORTH

Opportunities For a Great Industry at Wrangel.

The following letter appeared in the Portland Daily Times, on January 15, and goes to show that the outside world has its eye on us:

"To the Editor of The Times: I realize that it is now very difficult to call the attention of the public to any of the natural resources of the North. Misrepresentation in the past has caused hundreds to refuse to listen to the facts concerning many things in Alaska. The writer of this letter wishes to point out some of the resources of that country and the benefits our city might derive from it by our business men paying more attention to them. Some speak of Alaska as the storm center of the North, and its shores as the honyard of the Pacific. Men in a position to know can account for such a condition of things. They know that perhaps half of the boats pressed into the service at the time of the boom were either unseaworthy or manned by inexperienced pilots. The boasted Klondike, disgusted and disappointed, saw nothing in the country except the dream of a shattered fortune, while the vast, I might say unlimited supply of timber, fish and game had no attraction for him.

I have no desire to boom that country. I have spent some time in the southeastern part of Alaska, and after looking carefully into the national resources of that section, not to mention the mining, I say it is worth looking after. Portland ought to be the distributing point for the great fishing industry that is being rapidly developed and already established in many places. If Portland wishes the trade she must make an effort in that direction, and do so in the near future. Do our merchants want this business? Do our small capitalists want a safe investment for their money? A combination of this kind will help any city. Portland is entitled to its share of this trade, and should have it, for as these industries grow Portland should be in a position to take advantage of it.

This coming year will see wonderful changes in the North, and the fishing industry will be the first to find favor among men of limited means. They must have an outlet for their product and if Portland does not make some effort to get it, Seattle and San Francisco will reap the reward in the end. The fish of Alaska will never enter into competition with our fish in the Columbia river. Salmon are plentiful, but being smaller and not as fine quality, there is no danger of a rival. There is room for more salmon canneries in the

The Royal is the highest grade baking powder known. Actual tests show it goes one-third further than any other brand.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

North, but it is not the salmon—but the other varieties that we should look after.

Take the candle fish, or, as properly named, eulachon. These fish are decidedly the richest small fish that lives in any waters, by nature so full of oil that the natives have used them for lighting. Hence the name candle fish. Why are they not put on the market? Simply because men of capital and experienced hands have not co-operated, and the people of the interior know nothing about them. The black cod is a very fine fish that is sure to find favor among consumers. Then few people realize that in those waters we have the true cod, as good a fish as the well-known codfish of the Atlantic coast. The Alaska herring is rapidly coming to the front. Only recently a large plant was established by Seattle capitalists near Fort Wrangel, Alaska, for putting up herring and shipping the pride of Alaska's food fishes, the halibut. Other parties will soon establish a plant at some point in the vicinity of the halibut banks north, for the purpose of curing this fish, so that it can be shipped to any part of the world. Scientific methods of curing this fish have lately been introduced and the writer can see great possibilities in the trade of this one article alone. There is also a mackerel which has a firm, hard flesh, and doubtless would find a ready market if put up properly. Enterprising men from the Sound cities have recently declared that the skin of the black shark, or, as more commonly known up there, as the dog fish, will revolutionize the trade in shoe leather, and are now incorporated as a business enterprise and preparing to push matters.

To you who doubt the quality of our food fishes let me call your attention to one man on the Columbia river who, by his painstaking and careful selection has brought a certain brand of salmon up to a standard, and established a price for it, above all others, a credit to our Columbia river and a help to our city. Give the same attention to others. Encourage and help these industries that must come by the nature of things in the North; handle the product here, and while you are helping yourself you will be benefiting the commercial interests of our city. People of limited means must depend to some extent upon the handlers of their products for support. They need assisting in many ways, for it is through their efforts and experimenting that capitalists are brought to a realization of its importance, and every business house knows what it means to be on the ground floor when it comes to handling an article of daily consumption.

The industries that can be built up in the North are many, and it remains with your business men to say whether you will take this matter under your consideration or not.

I do not believe that the locality always determines the quality, and it is foolish to suppose that the fish in the Pacific are not as good as the fish in Atlantic waters. Why should climatic conditions affect the product if we use as much care in selection and preparation as they do. We have been paying out large amounts for the support of the fishing industries of the East. Let us pay more attention to our own and meet them half way at least in the market of the Middle States. We have variety. We have a market. We have a supply that cannot be exhausted for years to come. Portland let the Sound cities capture the trade one year ago in Alaska. Will she now let San Francisco take the fishing business from the same place? This is no Klondike boom. It means much for the future. Will you let it go or share in it's profits?

When you can not sleep for coughing take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It always gives prompt relief. It is most excellent for colds, too, as it aids expectoration, relieves the lungs and prevents any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Wrangle Drug Co.

The arrearages due by subscribers on our books amount to a considerable sum. Individually they are but small, but in the aggregate they amount to thousands of dollars, and as everything connected with the production of the Journal is based upon the cash system, that is in the payment of wages to employes, paper, ink, fuel, light, etc., you will see the necessity, on your part, for a prompt response to this appeal.

Capt. N. H. James returned to town on Tuesday last with over 60 deer. He took them to Skagway on the Derigo. He left a nice fawn with the writer for which he has our sincere thanks.

On the quiet. Next week there will be a wedding and after it is over you will say "Did you ever," "Well I never," "I told you so," and "who'd a thunk it." The Journal wishes them a long life of uninterrupted joy. For further information attend church tomorrow evening.

S. R. Adams, sometimes called "Dad," deputy collector for Wrangel, is back again. "Dad" is "all wool and a yard wide" and a credit to the service. If all the men on Mr. Ivey's staff were built on the same model as "Dad," then Mr. Ivey could point to his army of deputies with pride.

As soon as the license law goes into effect Wrangel will have 47 saloons, 31 wholesale houses and 9 breweries. The above is actual count by our reporter up to date. During the next few days there is a possibility it will reach the 100 mark. If it does Wrangel will contribute just $100,000.00 for school purposes.

Continuous advertizing is the best advertizing. Keeping your name always prominently before the people and your goods always in their minds is real, live advertizing. Spasmodic publicity is cheaper in dollars and cents, but it's results are correspondingly less. "Keep everlastingly at it" is a good motto to hang over the advertizing desk.—Shoe and Leather Gazette.

"I take pleasure in recommending Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to all who suffer from pains in the stomach," says Mr. Milt McKinley, editor of the Rawson (Ohio) Herald "Until I used this remedy it was, at times, impossible for me to be in my office, owing to attacks lasting from one to two days. By taking it as soon as the first symptoms of the attack are felt, I no longer suffer this unpleasant sickness." For sale by Wrangle Drug Co.

Some of the boys got up a little dance at Bruno's the other night. As soon as the music started all loyal Irishmen left the house and the Germans just wilted. Bruno walked the floor and kept time to the noise by singing "Oh! Mine!" "Oh! Mine!" "Oh! Mine!" As soon as he could make himself understood he gave the musician to understand that there was no music in the "bag pipes" for him and the dance came to an end. Bruno just wants to speak a few words mit the fellow that put up the job.

The editor of a paper in Nevada has taken to the hills in the hope of saving his life, as a result of his getting the report of a cattle show and a concert mixed up. The spic article in question, which in his paper, read: "The concert given by six of Carson Sink Lake's most beautiful young ladies was highly appreciated. They sang in a most charming manner, winning the plaudits of the audience, who pronounced them to be the finest herd of Short-horns in the country. A few are of a rich brown color, but the majority are spotted brown and white. Several of the heifers are able-bodied and clean-limbed animals."

Notice to the Public.

All parties knowing themselves indebted to the firm of Case & Wilson are hereby notified to call and settle the same at once. We are going to make a change in our business and need money. All accounts not settled by March 1st 1899, will be placed in the hands of our attorney for collection. In the meantime we are selling goods at cost, for cash.

CASE & WILSON.

When You Have a Bad Cold.

You want the best medicine that can be obtained, and that is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

You want a remedy that will not only give quick relief but effect a permanent cure.

You want a remedy that will relieve the lungs and keep expectoration easy.

You want a remedy that will counteract any tendency toward pneumonia.

You want a remedy that is pleasant and safe to take.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only medicine in use that meets all of these requirements. This remedy is famous for its cures of bad colds throughout the United States and in many foreign countries. It has many rivals, but for the speedy and permanent cure of bad colds, stands without a peer and its splendid qualities are everywhere admired and praised. For sale by Wrangle Drug Co.
